Research Paper

A Comparative Study of Impunity for Criminals in Iranian Law and International Documents; Cases and solutions

Ali Mansour Lakouraj ¹ and Asghar Abbasi ²

¹ Instructor, Department of Criminal Law and Criminology, Faculty of Law, Chalous Branch, Azad University, Chalous, Iran. ² Assistant Professor, Department of Criminal Law and Criminology, Faculty of Law, Azad University, Chalous Branch, Chalous, Iran.

Abstract

The article seeks to enumerate the cases of impunity of offenders in Iranian law and international documents, and to examine ways to deal with it; With the premise that it cannot be considered an acceptable phenomenon, we decided to state the cases of impunity in Iranian law (the normal way to fall punishments is their execution, but sometimes the punishment disappears without execution, from which we refer to the abnormal ways in which punishment falls. Punishment is sometimes overturned because a way other than their fulfillment achieves the purpose of punishment.) Examines the legal principles preventing the punishment of criminals, including the principle of internal criminal law, the principle of non-interference, the principle of immunity in cases against impunity from the Nuremberg Charter to the Rome Statute. Analyze the International Criminal Court and the International Criminal Court. Finally, it can be said that, firstly, the existence of impunity in domestic law can be opposed to the principle of punishment and consequently the lack of justice, and secondly, among the provisions of the Statute. Rome There is conflict and frustratingly the administration of criminal justice through the Tribunal It has become possible in relation to underdeveloped countries. In the meantime, there is no proper mobilization by the Security Council.

Keywords: Impunity, Legal Principles, International Criminals, Iranian Law, Criminal Court

* Corresponding Author: Ali Mansour Lakouraj
Address: Department of Criminal Law and Criminology, Faculty of Law, Chalous Branch, Azad University, Chalous, Iran.
Email: dr.ali.mansoory@gmail.com
Tel: -